THE HOMEOWNER'S DECISION

They need AC help. Can they find and trust you?

businesses in the local map pack

The audit search returned 32 companies overall.

01 Show up

A useful result for the service and town.

02 Look credible

Real reviews. Accurate hours. A safe website.

03 Make the call easy

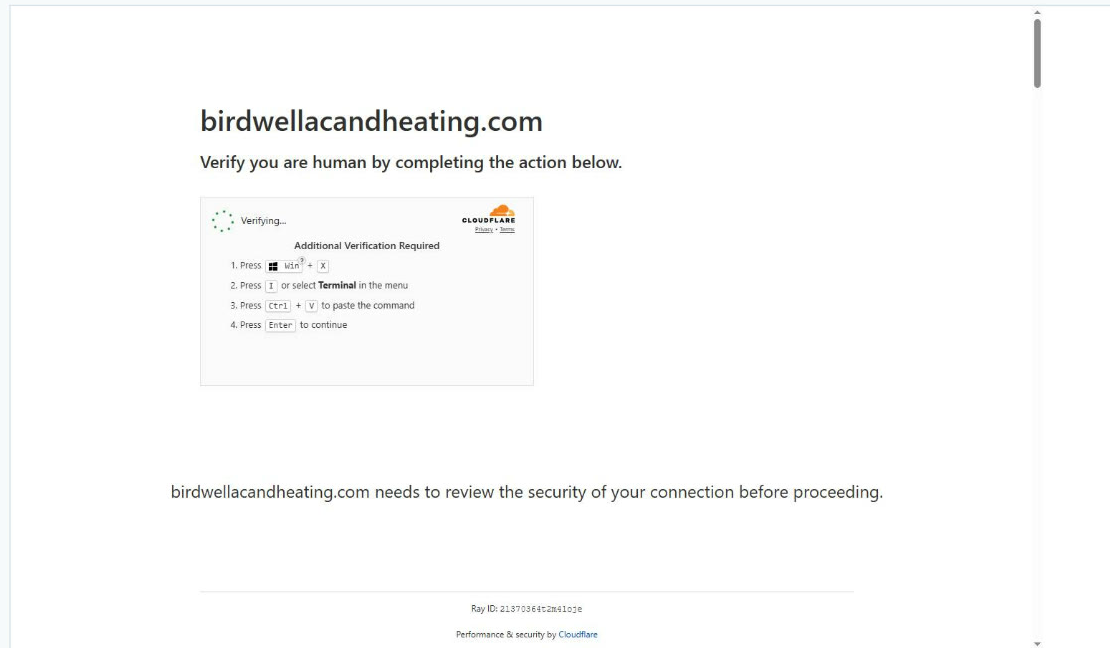

A clear number and a real person who answers.

THE AUDIT

The business is strong. The basics have been ignored.

A	Google rating	4.9 stars
A	Brand	Real crew, awards and identity
B+	Review volume	284 reviews at 4.9, and still 11th of 32
C	Map-pack ranking	Stronger competitors in the audit
C	Website conversion	Harder to contact than it should be
C	Local content	No dedicated town pages
C	Social media	Facebook sporadic, Instagram dormant
D	Listing consistency	Hours, address and phone disagree
F	Website security	Malicious verification screen
F	Ad tracking	Placeholder tag, wrong-number calls

Your website is showing a malicious verification screen

Captured on birdwellacandheating.com · September 9, 2026

Every page we checked

The same injected script, hidden in the code.

A fake Cloudflare screen

It tells your visitor to paste a command. The command installs malware.

Clean in May 2025. Infected now.

Nobody was watching.

This is what a visitor sees under your name

birdwellacandheating.com

Verify you are human by completing the action below.

 Verifying...  Privacy · Terms

Additional Verification Required

1. Press  Win? +
2. Press  or select Terminal in the menu
3. Press  +  to paste the command
4. Press  to continue birdwellacandheating.com needs to review the security of your connection before proceeding.

Real Cloudflare shows a checkbox and nothing else. This one tells your customer to open a terminal and paste a command it already copied to their clipboard. That command installs malware.

Your ads are paying for someone else's customers

Callers are asking for companies like
Mathews and Colair.

01

They want Mathews

They type the competitor's name into Google.

The fix: competitor exclusions, call tracking, a real analytics tag. Half a day inside the account.

Confirmed inside the ads account on day one.

02

Your ad shows up

Nobody told Google not to show it on those searches.

Also found: G-XXXXXXXXXX on your site. A placeholder tag. Whoever installed it never finished.

03

Tia takes the call

You pay for the click. You spend the minute. They hang up.

FINDING #3 · THE ACCURACY PROBLEM YOU RAISED

Your hours should have one answer

BBB

Different phone & zip

Hotfrog

Nextdoor

Duplicate pages

The same business.

The same information everywhere.

Google ranks on three things. Reviews are only one of them.

town pages. Relevance.

For the 12 towns and service areas
you say you serve.

17 service pages. All titled for Corpus Christi.
No dedicated pages for Portland, Padre Island,
Ingleside, Aransas Pass or Port Aransas.

Prominence: the review gap

Same rating. Very different counts.

Distance you can't change. A Portland page is how you show up in Portland without a Portland office.

Audit: September 9, 2026. Google's own local ranking factors: relevance, distance, prominence.

THE DIAGNOSIS · IN YOUR TERMS

You'd never let a tech treat a customer like this.

A customer pays a monthly plan. Their system has been down for months. Every visit is a patch. When they finally call somebody else, the old guy says:

| “Give me time to make it right.”

What would you tell that customer?

That customer is you.

Hold anyone you pay to that standard. Including me.

QUESTIONS WORTH ASKING, WHOEVER DOES THE WORK

Make what right?

Three questions to ask him.

01 What exactly changes, and by when?
“More aggressive SEO” isn’t an answer. Pages, listings, reviews, dates.

02 Who was checking the site?
It took an outsider’s audit to trigger his alert. Where was he before that?

03 What have you been paying for?
A site that infects your customers isn’t a product. That’s not fair to you.

Judge this the way you judge a technician.

Did he say what he’d do? Did he do it? Did the problem stop?

THE PRIORITIES

The work has a clear order

01

Stop the harm

Clean site, correct hours, one phone number everywhere.

02

Stop the waste

End the wrong-number calls and measure every real one.

03

Build local visibility

Town pages, consistent listings, more reviews.

You run the office, answer the phone, and have been the alarm system for a vendor you pay.
The point of all this: you stop thinking about it.

Fewer moving parts. Clear responsibility.

The current setup

WordPress + multiple plugins

A stack of plugins, each one a door.
Somebody has to patch every one, forever.

The proposed setup

A static site + ongoing checks

No WordPress admin, no plugins to patch.
One person responsible, checked every week.

Someone owns the updates, the checks and the follow-through.

WHAT WE WOULD BUILD

Three pieces, working together

01

Website

Your real crew and reviews

Service and town pages

One-tap call and text

02

Local visibility

Matching business listings

Review tool on your phone

Weekly Google posts, town pages

03

REVIEW GROWTH · 284 TODAY, 500 BY NEXT SUMMER

How the reviews actually happen

Target of 500 by summer is a pace, not a promise. About 24 a month.

01 Finish the job, tap one name

A page on Jason's phone lists today's customers. One tap opens a pre-written text from his own number. No app, no login.

02 We reply to every review within a day

In your voice, so the next reader sees a company that answers.

03 The number on the screen goes up

Every request is logged, so the monthly report shows asks, reviews, and rating.

THREE DOORS

Whatever you decide, the site can't stay like this.

01

Give it back to him

Send him this audit. Ask the three questions. Hold him to a date.

02

Find someone else

Local. Website, listings, reviews, ads and security under one roof. Answers the phone.

03

Hand it to me

Clean site in two weeks. Listings fixed. Ads cleaned up. Then you stop thinking about it.

Door one is hope. Door two is a search.

Door three starts this week.
